Subject: Nelly Koziel Award nomination

Martha,

The AGS Nelly Koziel Award is made “to a person who has recently made a significant contribution to the promotion of geoscience, beyond the call of duty, in the Atlantic Provinces. The award may be made to any member or friend of the Society.”

I wish to nominate Tracy Webb for the Nelly Koziel Award. Tracy has been a long-time member of the Education Committee, but recently has made a very significant contribution as the chair of that committee. She does that not as a practising geoscientist, but as a high school teacher who promotes geoscience in her classes at Horton High School, Nova Scotia. Over the past three years, as the new chair of the AGS Education Committee she has led the committee in its efforts to offer the EdGEO program, to arrange special sessions at colloquia, and to bring other educators to the conference and to geoscience in general. These efforts are far beyond the call of duty for a high school teacher, and AGS is a thankful beneficiary of her labours.

Yours sincerely,
